C) On the 31st of August, Swami Baneshananda of Germany, Swami Tyagananada of Boston, Swami Sarvapriyananda of Belur Math and Swami Atmeshananda of Sydney centre arrived in Auckland to participate in Swamiji’s 150th birth anniversary celebrations. A satsanga was held at the Ashram in the evening on that day. Swami Atmeshananda sang bhajans. The other three swamis gave informal talks on spiritual life and Sri Ramakrishna after the ārati.

“...The gross body is the instrument made out of Akasha, for the manifestation of Prana in gross forms, as muscular motion or walking, sitting, talking and so forth. That fine body is also made of Akasha, a very fine form of Akasha, for the manifestation of the same Prana in the finer form of thought. So, first there is this gross body. Beyond that is this fine body and beyond that is the Jiva, the real man. Just as the nails can be pared off many times and yet are still part of our bodies, not different, so is our gross body related to the fine. It is not that a man has a fine and also a gross body; it is the one body only, the part which endures longer is the fine body and that which dissolves sooner is the gross. Just as I can cut this nail any number of times, so, millions of times I can shed this gross body, but the fine body will remain. According to the dualists, this Jiva or the real man is very fine, minute.

So far we see that man is a being, who has first a gross body which dissolves very quickly, then a fine body which remains through aeons and then a Jiva. This Jiva, according to the Vedanta philosophy, is eternal, just as God is eternal. Nature is also eternal, but changefully eternal. The material of nature--Prana and Akasha--is eternal, but it is changing into different forms eternally. But the Jiva is not manufactured either of Akasha or Prana; it is immaterial and, therefore, will remain for ever. It is not the result of any combination of Prana and Akasha and whatever is not the result of combination, will never be destroyed, because destruction is going back to causes. The gross body is a compound of Akasha and Prana and, therefore, will be decomposed. The fine body will also be decomposed, after a long time, but the Jiva is simple and will never be destroyed.”
